

AI Realty App, Inc.

Electronic Signature and Electronic Communications Consent

Effective Date: April 30, 2026

1. Consent to Electronic Communications

By using AI Realty, you consent to receive communications electronically, including notices, disclosures, workflow confirmations, transaction workflow updates, payment confirmations, document delivery information, policy updates, and account-related communications.

2. Consent to Electronic Signatures

AI Realty may support electronic signature workflows through third-party e-signature providers, including DocuSign or other approved providers. By using these features, you consent to the use of electronic signatures, electronic records, and electronic delivery where permitted by law.

3. User Responsibility Before Sending

Before sending any document for signature, users are responsible for reviewing document data, signer names, signer email addresses, recipient roles, routing order, transaction terms, attached forms or disclosures, and final document package.

4. Relationship to Third-Party E-Signature Providers

The applicable e-signature provider may control delivery, signing, authentication, recipient notifications, access, completion certificates, audit trails, and executed document availability. Use of third-party e-signature services may be subject to additional provider terms and policies.

5. Delivery and Recipient Responsibility

Users are responsible for verifying recipient names, emails, signer roles, signing order, document package contents, transaction terms, and delivery instructions. AI Realty is not responsible for delays, failed delivery, bounced emails, incorrect recipient information, recipient refusal, recipient inaction, spam filtering, mailbox restrictions, third-party provider outages, or recipient device issues.

6. Hardware and Software Requirements

To access electronic records, users need internet access, a compatible browser, an email account, software capable of viewing PDF documents, a device capable of accessing electronic communications, and access to any applicable third-party e-signature service used in the workflow.

7. Copies

Users may download or print electronic records where available. Executed documents may be available through the applicable provider or AI Realty workflow record, subject to retention rules, provider availability, account status, and platform configuration.

8. Signature Status Information

AI Realty may display signature status information received from the applicable e-signature provider, including sent, delivered, opened, viewed, signed, completed, declined, voided, expired, bounced, or failed delivery. Status information may be delayed, incomplete, unavailable, or dependent on provider systems.

9. Withdrawal of Consent

Users may withdraw consent to electronic communications by contacting AI Realty. Withdrawal may limit or prevent the ability to use AI Realty services.

10. Relationship to Other Policies

This Consent supplements the Terms of Use, Privacy Policy, DocuSign Delivery Notice, Signature Lifecycle Notice, Payment & Refund Policy, Document Responsibility Notice, and other Legal Hub documents.
